

R&D Customer Project Responsible

About the job

- Customer project management responsibility for customer project management for Diesel Direct Injection Components
- Responsible for the customer project to ensure on time start of production
- Timeline planning of the project and preparing work breakdown structure
- Organization of kick-off, project status and milestone review meetings
- Attending and organizing customer meetings and if necessary visits
- Preparing all the necessary documentation for production and documentation according to the Bosch Project Management Handbook
- Coordination of development, sample production, production and quality activities
- Following of project targets (quality, cost, delivery)
- Collaboration in a cross-functional team consisting of sales, research, development, manufacturing, quality department and international locations

Qualifications

- Excellent command of written and spoken German is a must
- University degree in Mechanical Engineering with electronic system background, including Control and / or Mechatronic Engineering
- Work experience in automotive industry and in customer project management is an asset
- Willing to work in international teams and within intercultural environment
- Very good communication skills and customer-oriented thinking
- Able to work independently, to take initiative and to make strategic decisions
- Able to travel abroad

Additional Information

Your future job location offers you: Flexible benefits and services, medical services, employee discounts, on-site parking, catering facilities, access to local public transport, room for improvements.

Only positive candidates will be replied via a video interview invitation.

Deneyimli adaylarla birlikte iyi seviyede Almanca ve İngilizce bilen, 4. sınıfta olup 2023 Haziran'da mezun olacak veya yeni mezun mühendis adayları değerlendirilecektir.

Başvuru Linki: <https://www.linkedin.com/jobs/view/3499694360/>