Objectives	The aim of the course is to impart theories, concepts, developments and areas of application of linguistics and communication science in an interdisciplinary manner.
Content	The course deals with the analysis of language and communication in various areas and contexts. For this purpose, the general basics for understanding the structural and functional aspects of language use in communicative contexts are developed and discussed with regard to their theoretical, methodological and practical implications. On the one hand, the focus is on language as a cognitive system and communication medium and, on the other hand, linguistic and paralinguistic aspects of communication as well as linguistic pragmatics in media-mediated communication are dealt with.
