Course Type	Compulsory		Elective		X
Objectives	The aim of the course is to elaborate the characteristics of law and morality, i.e. two independent but often intertwined systems of norms, and to relate them to each other.
Content	Analytical, empirical, as well as normative relations between law and morality will be elaborated and problematized both theoretically and through practical application cases. The examination of relevant 'classics' of legal philosophical literature will be an essential component of the course, with a focus on texts from the 20th century. Particular importance will be attached to the legal philosophical treatment of law during the National Socialist period.
